UCT Academics' Union invites all interested parties to a panel discussion:

Academic Freedom at UCT

UCT had invited Flemming Rose, a Danish journalist and editor at Jyllands-Posten, to deliver the TB Davie Memorial Lecture on academic freedom. In recent events UCT's executive retracted the invitation of Mr Rose, citing his controversial views and potential for unrest as reasons. These events have since been the cause for discussion and debate on campus and in the public media.

As a response the Academics' Union will facilitate a series of events starting with a moderated panel discussion to which we would like to extend our cordial invitation.

8 September 2016

17:30 Lecture Theatre 2

Kramer Law Building, Middle Campus
