

A leader is one who knows the way, goes the way, and shows the way. - John C. Maxwell

To learn more, do more and become more of an influential leader we invite you to take part in our 2016 Leadership Conference in healthcare. The conference will address the changes faced in the 21st century.

Many global organisations, are faced with the challenge of providing leadership in resource restrained environments. Leaders need to set visions and direction for their organizations, taking into account the impact this has on everyone concerned as well as making organizations sustainable for future leaders.

The Leadership conference 2016 seeks to draw the experience of people who are leaders or seek to be leaders in the field of managing organizations in our challenging world.

We invite you to submit a proposal in any one of the themes of: Leadership in healthcare: Responding to the challenges of the 21st century and join us in the most beautiful city in the world, Cape Town, South Africa, from 27 to 30 November 2016 to share your research, best practices, knowledge and reflections on leadership in healthcare. This inaugural leadership conference will pave the way for the future sustainability of multidisciplinary, person centered health services.

Authors who would like to share their work either as oral presentations or as part of panel discussions, at the Leadership conference, should submit an abstract of 350- 400 words using the online submission form to the review committee for consideration. All abstracts must be written in English and will be assessed using standardized criteria. The decision of the review committee is final. There will be no payments made for abstracts selected for presentation.
