Applications are invited for the above-mentioned position

Requirements include:

- A PhD in Immunology, Genetics, Microbiology, Virology or related field
- A minimum of 2 years’ postdoctoral experience working with models of infectious disease in a research laboratory.
- Established expertise of current molecular technology research application will be an advantage.
- A track record of publication in the field of Molecular Biology/Immunology/Genetics/Infectious Diseases or a related field
- Demonstrated ability to communicate effectively.
- Ability to collaborate effectively and work well in a team
- Ability to work autonomously, under pressure, and to meet deadlines
- Good organizational skills

Responsibilities include:

- Conduct innovative research in the field of host immune function in the context of Infectious Disease with a particular emphasis on Tuberculosis.
- (Co)-supervise postgraduate students and more junior staff members’ research
- Contribute to administration and management duties
- Publish research findings in peer-reviewed journals.
- Attract research funding to conduct semi-independent research in the field of host immune function against Tuberculosis

The annual remuneration package is R305,000/annum

Application process:

To apply, please e-mail a comprehensive CV with 3 contactable referees to Professor Muazzam Jacobs, University of Cape Town, Rondebosch, 7700.

E-mail: Muazzam.jacobs@uct.ac.za  Telephone: +27 21 4066078  Website: www.idm.uct.ac.za

An application which does not comply with the above requirements will be regarded as incomplete.

General sentence:

UCT is committed to the pursuit of excellence, diversity and redress. Our Employment Equity Policy is available at http://hr.uct.ac.za/policies/ee.php.