University presents:

Health and Human Rights: What Can the Wouter Basson Judgment Teach Us?

SPEAKERS

Prof Leslie London (Chair of Public Health Medicine)
&
Dr Janet Giddy

RESPONDENT: *Prof Keymanthri Moodley
(Bioethics Centre, Stellenbosch University)*

The Health Professions Council of South Africa has found Dr Basson, former head of the Chemical and Biological Warfare (CBW) Programme in the South African Defence Force under apartheid, guilty of unprofessional conduct.

This commemorative Human Rights Day event will reflect on the lessons of the judgment for universities in teaching professionalism and preparing our graduates to practice to the highest ethical standards in situations where the pressures on health professionals are often severe.

Date: Thursday 20th March 2014

Time: 13h00 - 14h00

Venue: Frances Ames, Barnard Fuller Building,
UCT Faculty of Health Sciences
